Anglo-Saxons invade

During the Roman rule of Britain, tribes from Denmark and Germany attempted to invade Britain. The Romans built shore forts on the east and south coasts of England to protect themselves from invasion. After the Romans left in AD 410, three tribes called the Angles, Saxons and Jutes invaded England. They attacked and killed Britons or caused them to flee to Cornwall, Wales or Scotland. By AD 600 the invaders had claimed England as their own country and divided it into seven kingdoms. Each kingdom was ruled by an Anglo-Saxon king.

Anglo-Saxon way of life

After the invasion, people in the south and east of England settled into the Anglo-Saxon way of life. The Anglo-Saxons lived in small villages of huts and farmed the land. They were great craftspeople who used metal, wood, clay and precious stones to make weapons, tools, pottery, furniture and jewellery. When the Anglo-Saxons arrived in Britain, they were pagans, which means they believed in different gods. Over time, most Anglo-Saxons converted to Christianity. They spoke Old English, which developed from the language spoken by the Angles, Saxons and Jutes. Few people could read and write.

Vikings invade

The Vikings came from Denmark, Sweden and Norway. The word 'Viking' comes from the Old Norse language and means 'a pirate raid'. They first raided monasteries on the north coast of England in AD 793. Monasteries were easy targets for the Vikings, as the monks had no weapons but lots of riches. At first, the Vikings carried out violent raids, stealing precious items and burning down buildings, before returning home. However, they eventually conquered the land and took over many of the Anglo-Saxon kingdoms.

Viking way of life

The Vikings lived in large homes, called longhouses, which they shared with their animals. Longhouses were built from wood or stone with a thatched or turf roof. Many Vikings worked as farmers, growing crops and keeping animals. The Vikings were skilled craftsmen. They made strong weapons, fast ships and beautiful metalwork and wooden carvings. They also made jewellery from metal, wood and glass. Viking women were skilled at spinning wool to weave into cloth and dyeing fabrics. The Vikings were pagans, unlike most people living in Britain at the time, who were Christians. Gradually, the Vikings became Christians to allow them to live and trade more easily with their neighbours.

End of Anglo-Saxon rule

By AD 870, the only Anglo-Saxon kingdom left was Wessex, which was ruled from AD 871 by a wise and popular king called Alfred. The Vikings tried to invade Wessex in AD 876 and at first seemed to be succeeding but Alfred fought back. He defeated the Viking leader, Guthrum, in battle. Alfred made a deal with Guthrum to share Britain between them. However, the Anglo-Saxons and Vikings continued to fight so Alfred created an army and navy to defend Wessex from Viking troops. Other Anglo-Saxon leaders followed Alfred and their separate kingdoms started to unite. The end of Anglo-Saxon rule came in 1066 with the invasion of the Normans.
